HCG / FDA DISCLAIMER

The Role of the FDA:

The FDA's role is to set-up tests and recommend safety of drug related products on the market. As an agency they are not in the medical business. As long as a drug is safe to use then it is up to the discretion of the medical doctor to prescribe it for various situations that they are "trained to understand and know the application for". A medical doctor has the right by law to do as they see fit to handle a patient under their care and to handle the problems the patient is experiencing.

HCG has been used to treat many various health issues and has been and has been in existence to do so for over 50 years by the medical community. However, the FDA has not approved HCG therapy to lose weight.

In regards to HCG this is the FDA's Statement:

INDICATIONS AND USAGE:

HCG has not been demonstrated to be effective adjunctive therapy in the treatment of obesity. There is no substantial evidence that it increases weight loss beyond that resulting from caloric restriction, that it causes a more attractive or "normal" distribution of fat or that it decreases the hunger and discomfort associated with calorie-restricted diets.
